Bay participation is vital to county wastewater plan

By BRENT MACEY

Lack of Bay St. Louis agreement to join the Waveland Wastewater Authority is a major stumbling block to the authority's ability to secure federal funds.

And those funds are essential to implementation of a county run wastewater system, authority board members agreed during a regularly scheduled meeting in Waveland Wednesday.

As a result, the meeting was cut short when Bay St. Louis city councilmen failed to attend, apparently due to a mix-up on the time and date of the meeting.

Also absent from the Wednesday meeting was Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett, Waveland Authority member.

The authority agreed to recess until next Wednesday, hoping the new Bay council will attend and approve joining.

The authority's engineer, Ray Eaton of the Lewis and Eaton Partnership of Jackson, said a proposed time schedule for implementing the plan called for Bay St. Louis to have joined the authority between May 7 and July 7.

"Technically Bay St. Louis has not joined and they must," said Waveland Mayor John Longo, authority president.

The former Bay Council voted to join the three-county Regional Wastewater Authority, but a veto by Bennett in January kept the council from joining that program.

Three members of the former council voted in favor of endorsing the regional plan, Fred Wagner, James Thriffley and Peter Benvenuti.

Two of those councilmen, Wagner and Benvenuti, did not seek reelection and have been replaced by Ward Four Councilmen Shelton Seuzeneau and Ward One Councilman Gary Eugene Taylor who took office July 3. Thriffley was reelected.

Hancock schools' budget approaches $3.2 million

By BRENT MACEY

The Hancock County School Board Wednesday approved a $3.18 million budget for the next fiscal school year. Superintendent Billy Sills said he and Brenda Ladner, head bookkeeper for the school district, spent long hard hours working up the new fiscal year budget.

"It was the hardest job I ever had," Sills said.

"We only had X number of dollars and we couldn't go over."

Ladner agreed the budget is tight and Friday stated two thirds of a $1 million dollar cushion included in last year's $4.38 million budget was spent last year on capital improvements.

Ladner said those improvements included repairs to a tornado damaged Gulfview Elementary School in Lakeshore, construction of a handicapped center at Hancock North Central Elementary School, and improvements to three principal's homes.

She stated the $1 million cushion was originally established over an eight year period from revenue derived from bonuses included in leasing 16th section lands.

Some $300,000 remains of last year's cushion, Ladner said and added that money is not really a cushion in this year's budget.

She feels the district will have to use most of that money to build 16 additional classrooms slated for construction this year.

Sills has never revealed cost estimates for those 16 additional classrooms.

Ladner said that construction currently hinges on combining that cushion money with an additional $250,000 which the school board hopes to attain through the passage of a two mill tax.

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors accepted the school board's resolution to adopt that millage Monday during their regularly scheduled meeting. They agreed to advertise their intention of adopting the millage increase.

A petition against the passage of the mill tax, signed by 20 percent of Hancock County registered voters, will force the issue to a public vote.

During the three hour meeting, board members scrutinized and discussed possible areas where the budget could be shaved to increase other areas.

An originally proposed student activity budget at Hancock North Central, money used to support football, basketball, baseball, track, softball, other sports, and cheerleaders, was cut from $14,500 to $12,830.

Teaching supplies at the school were increased from a proposed $10,000 to $14,000. The board agreed to give each teacher $100 for their yearly school supplies.

"If they need more, then they will have to come to the board and ask for it," board member Johnny Banks stated.

This was a change from last year's policy when the principals of each school were allocated the teacher's supply money and given authority to distribute that money to the teachers.

The board agreed that this years BUDGET—Page 6A

School officials criticize student test score report

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Two Hancock County School District officials voiced objections Monday to a recent newspaper article reporting the system's elementary students receiving overall the lowest California Achievement Test score results on the Gulf Coast.

The test was given statewide in April, 1980 to fourth, sixth and eighth grade students through a State Department of Education program evaluating a youngster's scholastic development annually.

The article reporting the state-released CAT results, by school districts, appeared in a June 29 issue of "The Sun."

Board Member Louie Ladner stated, "This could be detrimental to our students because it's saying we're dumb."

"Hancock schools got a big black eye out of the issue. This misrepresented our district," he said.

Billy Sills, superintendent of education, stated, "The tests show Hancock County students did what they were supposed to do."

"Students did better in this test than in previous years. The article was misleading," Sills added.

The article reported that Hancock County ranked in the bottom 25 districts out of 153 systems statewide—generally in reading, writing and mathematics skills.

Ladner said he believed the tests REPORT—Page 8A

Marina death ruled accidental

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The Thursday morning death of a former Bay St. Louis resident at Bay Marina has been ruled accidental due to electric shock and resulting cardiac arrest, according to Hancock Coroner Carl Banderet.

The incident occurred at the marina on Washington Road in Hancock County late Wednesday night.

Paul Calvert, 36, 788 West Old Pass Road, Long Beach was pronounced dead at Hancock General Hospital where he had been taken by Mobile Medic from the Marina, according to Banderet.

Hancock Sheriff Ronald Peterson said his office received a call at 11:30 p.m. on July 8 and Captain Paul Bernard and Deputy David Garcia responded to the scene.

Investigator Alvin Ladner who is in charge of the case, said, "Calvert was standing in the boat in tennis shoes in about ankle deep water working in between two engines. He apparently touched his back to a light fixture on an extension cord which resulted in his being electrocuted."

Calvert's wife, a doctor and another couple were present when the accident occurred, according to police.

Participating in a corner's inquest held by Banderet were Ladner, Kent Hale, George Hamner, Harold Stiglet, A.L. Gibson, Louise Beal, and Constable W.E. Carbonette acting as bailiff.

Calvert was a manufacturer's representative for Stribling-Puckett and a member of the Main Street United Methodist Church, Bay St. Louis where services were conducted Friday.

Legal question puzzles officials

Waveland resident complains of neighborhood cattle herd

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A Waveland resident said Tuesday night at a City Board of Aldermen's meeting he might 'raise alligators and maybe a gorilla' on his property if a neighbor is allowed to graze cattle.

Ian Braymeyer, resident of Brown Street, offered those comments apparently in jest at the meeting, emphasizing what he feels is a residential area encroachment.

The Brown Street area is one of Waveland's recent annexations westward which includes Buccaneer State Park.

Lucien Gex, city attorney and judge, told the aldermen he does not think ordinances address raising livestock, but he would study the existing laws.

Mayor John Longo and Barbara Rappold, city clerk and alderman, both reported livestock within the city limits is a growing problem.

Braymeyer explained he moved to Brown Street in 1977, worked hard and improved the property, and rebuilt after Hurricane Camille destroyed his home in 1969.

"A few months ago a gentleman bought some acreage next to us and then the cows appeared," he reported. Braymeyer said his neighbor recently told him more cattle would be placed on the property.

"Now I've lost all my gain... I've worked too hard and put too much money in my property to see this happen," he stated.

"I came before you because you don't just start a farm in the city limits. Am I covered or what am I in for?" Braymeyer asked.

Gex noted, "If the Hancock County Board of Health says it's a menace to public health the cattle will have to be removed."

The city attorney said numerous complaints have been received regarding various residents' horses, but a herd of cattle might present more of a problem.

Braymeyer asked if legal action might be necessary, but Longo speculated the board of health would declare the cattle a public nuisance.

"I'd hate to be run out of town by some cattle," he added.

Longo hoped some solution could be reached to avoid neighborhood fights. In other business at the 7:30 p.m. regular meeting in City Hall, the aldermen:

—Accepted City Planning and Zoning Commission minutes in which Kathy Anderson of Herlihy Street was granted a variance for her new home allowing a 10 foot side yard instead of the required 15 foot buffer. Rappold suggested the side yard requirement might be reduced to 10 feet due to numerous requests, but Longo stated, "It seems a contradiction to me to have a 52 foot wide house on a postage stamp lot."

—Authorized a $1,000 payment to Broadway and Sea Engineers of Piquette for half payment of Waveland's 10 percent contribution for

ESCAPES SERIOUS INJURY—Holding a blood-soaked handkerchief is Joyce S. Lawrence, 35, of Stoll after she was injured Wednesday morning when her car struck two trees in the center median along the east-bound lanes of I-10 near the Hancock Welcome Center. Discussing the accident with Lawrence are Mobile Middle Emergency Medical Technicians Cliff Parker and Dennis Coghlan, and State Highway Patrolmen Homer McKnight, right, and Danny Tackett. Lawrence was treated at the accident scene for cuts on her lip and right arm, and a laceration above her left eye. McKnight said eyewitnesses reported a van, driven by James M. Brock, 62, of McComb, ran Lawrence off the roadway as he moved into the left lane. Brock was charged with failure to yield the right-of-way and is scheduled for a hearing Friday before District One Justice Court Judge Lee Klein. Also responding to the accident were Hancock County Fire Rescue Unit personnel and Hancock County Sheriff's Department deputies. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

Hancock waters free of red tide invasion

A red tide presently occurring in Mississippi's shore and offshore waters is the result of a bloom of the dinoflagellate Gonyaulax monilata, according to Gulf Coast Research Laboratory of Ocean Springs.

Harriet Perry, a GCRL fishery biologist, said, "This same organism was responsible for a red tide in August of 1979 when it was identified and reported for the first time from the local area."

She is maintaining a record of local occurrences.

Tuesday afternoon laboratory personnel James Warren, Jerry McLelland and John Cirino made an aerial reconnaissance of state waters to determine the extent of the bloom.

They noted heaviest concentrations of the organism between the Intracoastal Waterway and the north shore of Horn Island. Much of the middle portion of Mississippi Sound was affected.

A dense patch of reddish colored water was sighted north of the eastern tip of Horn Island, and small streaks of discolored water were noted in Horn Island Pass and north and south of Petit Bois Island in the eastern Sound.

Waters in the western Sound, north of the Intracoastal Waterway, were unaffected.

An aerial survey of major oyster beds in the Sound revealed no signs of the organism, according to Cirino, whose work includes oyster management.

Patches of reddish water were found around Cat Island and in the channel between Cat and Isle of Pile.

The Laboratory will continue to monitor the bloom. A boat survey was made Wednesday afternoon in the middle portion of Mississippi Sound where the organism appears to be concentrated.

Any fish kill should be reported immediately to Lab personnel Harriet Perry, Jerry McLelland or Robin Overstreet.

Because of the patchiness of the red tide in open waters of the Sound, it is unlikely that fish kills will occur, the fish being able to escape.

In other Gulf states where red tide has occurred in bays, fish kills have been reported.

Fisheries personnel at the Lab were notified of the red tide by Capt. Fred Thompson after he and students observed it Tuesday while on a collecting cruise on the Hermes.

Another group of personnel and students also observed the red tide while on a cruise on the Tommy Munro.

and several photographs were taken using color slide film.

Although a toxin is produced by this particular red tide organism, there are no documented reports of the toxin affecting warm-blooded vertebrates. However, an allergic reaction may be experienced by some people either swimming in affected waters or inhaling the spray.

July court includes trial of judge

By BRENT MACEY

Trials for a Hancock County Justice Court judge and a county election commissioner are scheduled for the upcoming three-week term of Hancock County Circuit Court slated to begin Monday.

The session will include impaneling a new Hancock County Grand Jury which is also slated for selection Monday.

In addition, a Bay St. Louis building contractor's trial is set for call opening day.

Judge Kosta N. Vlahos will preside. The trial of District Three Judge Lloyd Anderson, indicted for embezzlement of $185 allegedly obtained by virtue of his office, is scheduled for July 21.

The trial of John Ladner, county election commissioner charged with two counts of forgery, is set for July 20.

Ladner was indicted by the Hancock County Grand Jury in November of last year in connection with emergency repairs at Gulfview Elementary School in Lakeshore after a tornado struck the building in May, 1979.

The indictment charges Ladner with forging endorsements on two checks issued by the school board to Tommy Lane for painting work at the elementary school.

The trial of R.D. (Bob) Rippetoe, president of Bay Contractors Inc. of Diamondhead, charged with false pretense, is scheduled for call Monday. Rippetoe was also indicted by the November Grand Jury in connection with repair work at the elementary school.

That indictment charges Rippetoe with allegedly receiving a $4,840 payment from the Hancock County School Board for work allegedly never rendered by Werlin Ladner Construction Company, a subcontractor hired by Rippetoe for repair work.

Donnie M. Stroud is also scheduled for trial July 20 in connection with 10 counts of burglary of a dwelling at his trial scheduled July 20.

The case of Charles Edward (Chuck) Depree is listed on the term docket as continued pending outcome of appeal.

Circuit Clerk Henry Otis said Friday he still has no word on whether the Mississippi Supreme Court will consider Depree's appeal from a murder conviction in connection with the death of Janice Ladner.

Depree remains confined in an unnamed Mississippi jail. Also included on the circuit docket is some 218 civil cases.

Bay woman recovering from holiday stabbing

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A Bay St. Louis woman was released from Hancock General Hospital Wednesday and is home recovering from a stab wound she sustained July 4.

City Police Chief Douglas Williams Wednesday reported his officers were called to the hospital emergency room at 1 a.m. by a nurse.

"Upon arrival at the hospital Patrolman Wilbert Dorsey found Jacqueline Whavers, 30, of 230 Washington St. being treated for a possible puncture of the right lung and loss of blood after surgery," Williams stated.

The police chief said Darlene Jones, 24, of 202 Watts St. in Bay St. Louis was charged with stabbing Whavers.

"During the same altercation Jones received a cut on her right hand between the thumb and forefinger. She was treated and released from Gulfport Memorial Hospital," he explained.

Jones was booked at Hancock County Jail and released on a $6,000 bond.

Williams said more arrests may result in the department's continuing investigation of the incident.

Investigating officers are Patrolmen Judge Flood, Paul Gordon, Richard Trudell and Dorsey.

MARKET ROBBED

Bay police are also investigating a Tuesday armed robbery at the Majik Market convenience store located on the corner of US-90 and Washington Street.

Based on a description by a cashier, police are searching for a black male in his 20's who is five-foot seven-inches tall and weighs about 150 pounds.

Williams said the man was wearing a ski cap with a towel over his face and a "army" type jacket.

"The suspect took approximately $187 and some food stamps," Williams reported.

Responding to the call were Patrolmen Greg Hammer and Dorsey.

Investigating the incident is Officer Niels Sands.

DELI HIT AGAIN

Police are also investigating a burglary at a delicatessen.

Wednesday at 9:40 a.m. Bay police received a telephone call from Gloria Ladner, manager of The Eatery at 116 North Beach Blvd., reporting a theft.

Ladner said later that day she is the 12th time her business has been burglarized.

Williams said the thief entered the establishment through a fan vent on the south side of the building, pryed open a cigarette machine, stole its contents, and also took sausage and buns from a storage freezer.

The chief said he, along with Patrolman Larry Ladner conducted an initial investigation.

Sands and Investigator Delbert Seay of the Hancock County Sheriff's Department are continuing the investigation.

CLERMONT BURGLARY

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson Saturday confirmed more than $4,000 was stolen from a Clermont Harbor man's residence Friday, but all except $134 has been recovered.

"At 4 p.m. we received a call from Floyd Garcia, owner and proprietor of Garcia's Grocery, reporting a substantial amount of money was stolen from his residence adjoining the store," Peterson said.

"He had just come from the bank and had kept the money under his mattress," he stated.

Peterson said he, Seay and Deputy Ronald Cuevas began an investigation which resulted in the recovery of $4,115 in cash.

"We definitely know who stole the money and we have two suspects. We're just waiting for Garcia to determine if he wants to press charges," he reported.

The sheriff said half of the money was given to Seay while he was questioning a suspect and all except $134 was found in a jar tossed into a ditch near the store.

Peterson said a second suspect will be questioned after he returns from New Orleans.

Natural cooking author slates Bay workshop

The author of two books on creative, sugar-free cooking will conduct a one-hour workshop on nutrition and her unique approach to cooking using natural sweeteners in Bay St. Louis Wednesday.

Mary Ann Pickard, author of 'Feasting Naturally' and 'Feasting Naturally From Your Own Recipes' will discuss her books at Lolacano's Health Club Wednesday from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m.

The event is free and open to the public.

"Mary Ann Pickard has taken healthy food out of the 'nut' class and given it dignity, respectability and more good taste," says Dr. Lendon H. Smith, MD, of Portland, Ore., author of 'Feed Your Kids Right' and noted authority on family nutrition who wrote the prefaces for Pickard's books.

Both of Pickard's books feature a special 'Kid's Corner' which feature recipes for children.

Containing well over 200 recipes, 'Feasting Naturally From Your Own Recipes' is a resource for the creative cook who cares about the quality of nutrition in meals.

The book actually teaches the cook how to successfully recreate the taste of treasured recipes which have been shelved because of nutritional deficiencies.

The recipes contain no refined sugars, flours or food grains; and few if any harmful flavorings, colorings, additives, or preservatives, yet Pickard shows how the suggested creations can be prepared practically with items purchased in the modern supermarket.

Copies of the books will be available at Wednesday's workshop.

Bits 'n pieces

Fishing has been real good from the newly constructed American Legion Pier in Bay St. Louis.

We have taken photos of several large red fish and have seen some nice strings of speckles, croakers and drums.

The reason we bring up these good fishing stories is because some idiots are trying to spoil this fishing sport by doing mischief to the pier.

Some of the railings have been knocked loose and other damages to the facility. This pier has been constructed for one purpose, and that is for the enjoyment of anyone liking to fish and crab.

The American Legion spent many dollars to have the facility constructed, and we feel it should be respected by all people using it.

We urge anyone who sees someone trying to damage the facility to call the Bay St. Louis Police.

We received a call from one of our subscribers Thursday morning about the distances the pogy boats have to stay from the shoreline with their operations.

We talked to a spokesman at the Bureau of Marine Resources which enforces the regulations and he told us that there is a one mile limit from the shoreline for the capture nets.

The spokesman did say his agency received many calls about the pogy boats from concerned citizens.

Perhaps a two or three mile limit would be more realistic.

Senator Cochran reports

Senator Thad Cochran has recommended that President Reagan appoint Jackson attorney E. Grady Jolly to the United States Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals.

"Grady Jolly is eminently qualified, through his experience as an attorney in public and private practice. His intellect, character and temperament would serve him well in this important judicial position," Senator Cochran commented.

"I have carefully considered those persons with whom I am personally acquainted and others who have been recommended to me from throughout our State for this appointment," the Senator stated, "and Mr. Jolly is the best qualified among a group of very able people."

The Fifth Circuit vacancy occurred when Judge J. P. Coleman of Ackerman took senior status last month.

Jolly, 43, is a native of Meridian and was reared in Winston County. He graduated from Columbus High School and attended the University of Mississippi where he achieved an outstanding record in academics and student activities, finishing second in his graduating class at Ole Miss Law School in 1972.

Following graduation from law school, he served as a trial attorney for the National Labor Relations Board in Winston-Salem, N.C., as an Assistant U.S. Attorney in the Northern District of Mississippi in Oxford, and as an attorney in the Tax Division of the U.S. Department of Justice in Washington, before entering the private practice of law in Jackson in 1968.

Jolly is a member of national, state and local bar associations and is admitted to practice before Mississippi and federal courts, including the U.S. Supreme Court.

He and his wife Betty reside in Jackson and are active in civic, community and charitable organizations.

CULTURAL HERITAGE

With all the recent attention to the need to restrain the growth in federal spending, a lively discussion concerning the federal government's role in supporting the Arts and the Humanities has developed.

The argument has been made that federal funding is not needed in these areas and can be replaced by corporations and individual contributions.

According to a survey conducted by the Business Committee for the Arts, support for the arts from corporations has increased from $22 million annually since the first year of existence of the National Endowment for the Arts to a present total of more than $435 million.

Corporate support has greatly increased since the establishment of the National Endowments for the Arts and Humanities in 1965.

Since almost all of the federal grants require a dollar-for-dollar or a three-for-one match, they have acted as catalysts to encourage private and corporate support.

During appropriations subcommittee hearings held in the Senate and House, they testified that very few businesses are adventurous enough to stake company money on speculative art forms.

But when given the stamp of approval by the National Endowment, such new art does have a chance in the corporate boardroom.

A study released by the American Association of Fund Raising Councils showed a 680 percent growth in private funding for the humanities between 1965 and 1975.

The Humanities 1980 Challenge Grant program brought in over $90 million in new public gifts compared with the federal appropriation of $27 million.

The evidence is clear that the National Endowments have stimulated impressive growth in the number of cultural institutions and in the audiences they have attracted.

The most significant feature of this growth is that it has taken place outside the traditional urban cultural centers and in the more rural areas of the country.

Through the efforts of the Mississippi Committee for the Humanities and the Mississippi Arts Commission, grants from the National Endowments have been combined with state and private funds to support projects in small communities and rural areas throughout our state.

Twenty-nine local arts councils which were nonexistent ten years ago now serve communities across Mississippi.

The Artists in Schools program has provided thousands of Mississippi school children and teachers the chance to work with professional artists, and the program has allowed talented and trained artists to remain in the state rather than leave to seek work elsewhere.

In 1980, National Endowment and Mississippi Arts Commission funds in grants to programs in our state generated over $1 million in local funds. The National Endowment funds amounted to a little more than $300,000.

Between 1978 and 1980, grants of about $470,000 were awarded to 127 projects in the humanities affording Mississippians the opportunity to enrich their lives through a better understanding of their cultural heritage and their educational, political, and economic systems.

Public in-kind contributions for these projects amounted to over $702,000. One of the most impressive programs receiving such support is the Center for Southern Culture at Ole Miss.

I have recently joined an informal organization of members to the United States Senate called the Concerned Senators for the Arts, which is committed to the support of the arts in America.

Mississippi has produced some of the best writers and artists in this country.

PIPELINE DEAL SEEN AS DANGEROUS

By EDWIN FEULNER

It's been said that, when they hang the last capitalist, he'll sell them the rope.

Perhaps that quip hasn't gained currency in Western Europe. That might explain why some of our allies in NATO are rushing into a deal with the Soviets that looks suspiciously like giving them the rope.

The Soviets and several Western European nations are negotiating an agreement that would trade Western financing for Soviet natural gas.

On the surface, it would appear to be a mutually beneficial arrangement. The Soviets have natural gas reserves in the Yamal Peninsula (which is north of the Arctic Circle in Siberia) — but they lack the technology and cash to pull the gas out of the ground.

The Western Europeans would like to be less dependent on OPEC, and seem to think the Soviets would be a more reliable supplier of gas than the Arabs.

In order to get the gas out of Siberia, the Soviets plan a 3,600 mile pipeline — about four times the length of the Alaska oil pipeline. It would run across Russia, through Poland and Czechoslovakia, and into West Germany.

Six European nations are now reported to be negotiating with the Soviets to provide credits from Western European banks to pay for the pipeline and equipment.

Once the pipeline is operational, Western gas utilities' payments for the Yamal gas will be used by the Soviets to repay the European credits.

The nations pursuing the deal include West Germany, France, Italy, Austria, Belgium and the Netherlands.

The negotiations, news reports indicate, have prompted U.S. official concern that the Europeans could be substituting one form of potential political blackmail for another."

For example, the Federal Republic of Germany currently receives 15 percent of its annual natural gas supply from the USSR. The pipeline eventually would double this dependency to 30 percent.

"Such energy dependency would prove a potent weapon to Soviet policymakers," Soviet-watcher Dr. Jeffrey Barlow concludes. As one German commentator has noted, the Soviets don't even have to cut off the flow of gas to apply pressure. Just knowing they can do it may be pressure enough.

That's not the only argument against the Yamal pipeline deal. The deal also would furnish the Soviets with the capability to exploit natural gas fields now beyond their technological capacity, guaranteeing a new source of energy at a time of approaching Soviet oil production decline.

Obviously, there is ample cause for "official concern" on the part of the U.S. The west has been providing technology to the Eastern bloc for many years, for better or worse, but a transaction of this magnitude has enormous potential for damage to the security of NATO.

Barlow urges, wisely, that the Reagan Administration use its influence, especially with the West Germans, to turn down the deal.

He reminds the President that it is in the first months of a new administration that our allies "search avidly for signs that the new American leader possesses a direction of purpose and a clear understanding of his international responsibilities."

Our reaction to the potentially disastrous Yamal pipeline deal may be one of the most important signals the new President will send to our allies. Feulner is president of The Heritage Foundation, a Washington-based public policy research institute.

BILL ALLAIN, ATTORNEY GENERAL

"TIPS FOR RENTERS"

Attorney General Bill Allain suggests that when looking for an apartment to rent, you should consider several important points before signing a lease or contract.

Allain states that by taking the following precautions, one may eliminate any future complications.

—Read the lease very carefully and be sure you understand ALL of it before signing.

—If there are any variations or exceptions agreed to by the owner or manager, make sure they are written into the lease before you sign it.

—Be sure you get a copy of the lease at the time with the owner's or manager's signature.

—Before signing the lease, find out what repairs in the apartment you will be responsible for and those the management will be responsible for.

—Remember that you will be responsible for damage that is beyond normal wear and tear.

—There may be some questions you need to ask in regard to children, pets, visitors, parking, etc. Sometimes there is an additional fee for pets or children.

Be sure you know the management's position on these questions before signing rather than after — as it may be too late.

—There has been much controversy recently over security deposit refunds. In order to be as careful as possible in getting a refund on your deposit, it would be wise to take pictures of the apartment when you move in if there are questions about existing damage to the apartment. This would be very good evidence to back up your claims as to condition at time of occupancy.

—When your lease expires, photograph the interior of your apartment again. Encourage the owner or manager to physically inspect the apartment and attempt to obtain his signature to a written statement verifying the present condition of the premises.

In certain parts of Mississippi, apartments are very scarce as is other residential rental property. Remember, there are very few laws that offer legal recourse to renters when problems or disagreements arise.

BUYING A USED CAR

Attorney General Bill Allain states that consumers should exercise extreme caution when considering purchasing a used car that they know relatively little about. Allain says that buying a used car can be a very satisfying experience, but that it can also turn out to be frustrating, costly, and even life-threatening.

Here are some tips that offer the prospective buyer the best available protection. They can save you hundreds of dollars and make you a much better car shopper.

—Always insist on taking the car out for a road test. If the owner says "no," then don't consider buying it.

—Plan to drive the car for 1/2 hour. Try to drive in the city, on a highway, and on a rough road to see how it handles in different situations.

—Take the car to a trusted mechanic or a diagnostic station before making the final decision.

—Watch out for a cheap paint job to hide body rust; hoses sprayed with black paint to look new; steam-cleaned engine with freshly painted valve covers and air cleaner; painted tires; and erratically worn front tire exchanged for the spare tire to mask a front-end problem.

—Accelerate to see if white smoke or bluish smoke shoots out the exhaust pipe — it may indicate the engine needs a costly overhaul.

—Push-down on the corner of the car. Does it rock considerably after you stop? If so, you may need to replace the shock absorbers.

—Make sure a jack is included and check to see that the lights all work, the battery is not cracked, the oil is clean, and the carpeting is not badly worn.

—Try to get at least a 30-day full repair warranty.

—Remember never be rushed into a deal. Allow yourself 24 hours before buying a car.

The Bottom Line

Candid Answers To Your Questions About Advertising and Business Topics.

By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

I read about brand loyalty and store loyalty, etc., but I don't know exactly what it means and how it's measured. Any tips?

Dear AT: It means what the words imply, and measurements, while they vary, generally include repeat purchases and visits to the store.

How you achieve it, however, is an entirely wide open question, depending in part on your performance, the quality and price of your merchandise, as well as the nature of the market place.

One factor, of course, is service. Many local outlets build their entire reputation around their service departments and customers buy from them based on this expectation rather than brand-name, or for that matter, price.

But the major factor in loyalty is satisfaction of the buyer. This satisfaction includes not only good service and quality, but also reassurance that the purchases were wise and prudent.

One example of this is auto advertising. Here the customer has made a major purchase and has a high level of expectation.

Usually the expectation is greater than the auto can possibly deliver, so auto dealers must design their ads and promotions to keep these purchasers satisfied with their choices as well as to attract new customers.

They do this by pointing out the values of ownership, trade-ins, long-life, and performance. Generally price is not featured as a major part of the ad.

By making owners more satisfied, they not only build a valuable prospect for subsequent sales, but also create a group of enthusiastic salesmen—remember the slogan of one such company: "Ask the man who owns one!"

Therefore, customer loyalty is a plus factor that must be based on price, quality and service, along with the reassurance to each customer that he or she is special.

This is done through ad messages that give current, past and future customers the reassurance that they are special. And every contact you have with them must back-up, or support, this claim.

Pair implicated in chain saw theft

By ELLIS CUEVAS

One person has been arrested and warrants issued for a second believed involved in the alleged theft of two new and one used power saws from Jack Lott of Kiln, according to Hancock Investigator Delbert Seay.

The saws were reportedly taken May 24 and recovered June 18 in Gulfport, according to police.

Seay said he arrested Jimmie Peterson, 22, 2208 John Cruz Adams St., Gulfport on July 7 in The Kiln.

A warrant has been issued for a second party believed involved and living in Harrison County.

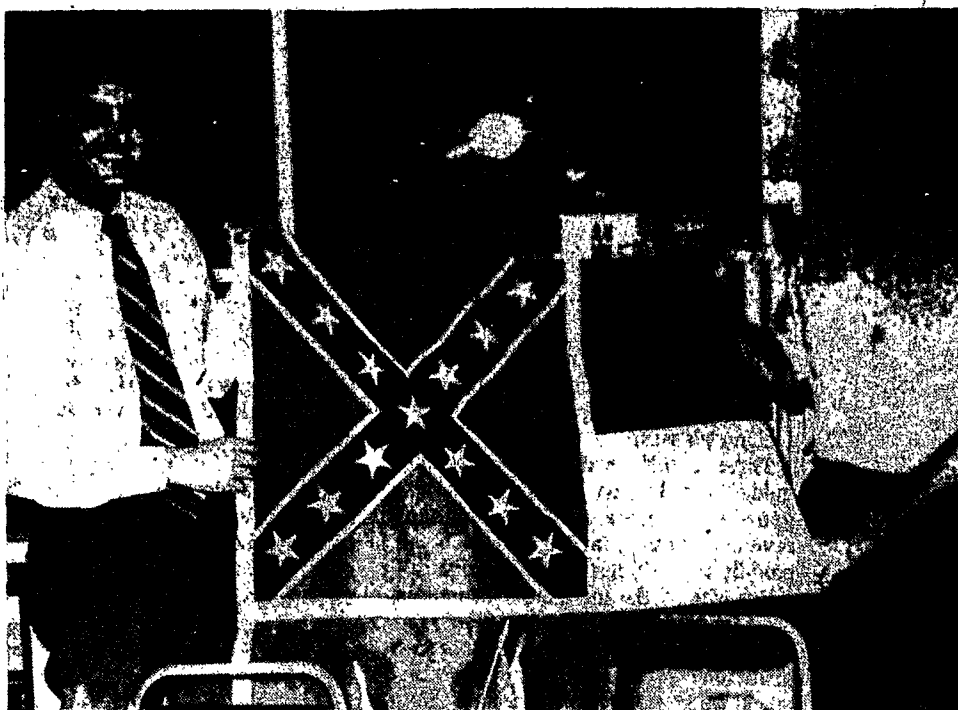

Assisting the local police in the investigation and recovery of the chain saws were Harrison Investigators Jerry Lankford and Prentis Smith.

Peterson is lodged in the Hancock Jail under a $5,000 bond.

In other police activities, Investigator Alvin Ladner reported the arrest of Jimmy Sullivan, 26, Rt. 1, Box 149, Bay St. Louis on July 3 on a warrant issued by the Mississippi Department of Corrections.

Ladner said the order to pick up Sullivan was issued because of violation of parole from the Department of Corrections where he had been serving time for a previous rape and two jail escape counts.

The investigator stated, "Sullivan had moved to Louisiana and had not been reporting to his parole officer and had left the state of Louisiana without permission."

Authority members now hope the new council will be willing to join the locally-managed sewer treatment authority.

Reelected Councilmen Wilmer Seymour, new council president, and Harry Farve of Ward Three previously have favored a county managed facility.

Farve said Friday, "I will not make any commitments until I get further details."

He added he was against the Regional three-county authority "because of the way they presented the proposal."

Taylor said, "95 percent of the people I have talked to in my ward (Ward One) are in favor of a county managed wastewater system. I am in favor of a county run system but whether I will be in favor of Waveland's proposal I don't know."

Thrillfield stated he has "no opinion" concerning the Waveland proposal since he has not seen the proposal to study it.

"The proposal would have to be studied and presented properly before I could endorse it," he added.

Seymour and Seuzeneau could not be reached for comment.

Eaton said the July 7 timetable also included having the authority secure a portion of a lagoon currently owned and used by Bay St. Louis for its sewer treatment.

"If Bay St. Louis agrees to these two basics then all we will have to do is fill out the applications and apply for the funds," Eaton said.

Waveland in turn must sign over its estimated $1.5 million treatment plant to the district.

Eaton questioned Lucien Gex, the authority's attorney, on legal steps he feels are necessary to implement the plan.

Gex responded, "We need to get Waveland and Bay St. Louis to approve this document in principal."

The plan for a Hancock County managed facility has still not been accepted by the Mississippi Bureau of Pollution Control.

That agency must approve the authority's plan before funding can be allocated by the federal government.

The authority sent the plan to the bureau two months ago for review, sent letters to U.S. Congressman Trent Lott, State Rep. J.P. Compretta and other state officials informing them the Waveland authority is the "cheapest most cost effective" means of treating sewage in Hancock County, Longo said.

Lott was the only one to respond to that letter. He also sent a letter to Charles Blalock, director of the Mississippi Department of Natural Resources, the parent agency of the pollution bureau.

Blalock responded to the representative by saying the department has received the plan and "we are reviewing the document and expect to have comments shortly."

The authority also was informed that the Gulf Coast Regional Wastewater Authority will be coming to Hancock County within the next month to conduct "further testing for its regional plan," Joseph Longo, Waveland sewer plant technician said.

Mayor Longo said Friday the regional authority recently received another half million dollars from the federal government for further studies.

"It is incredible the amount of money which they have wasted," he said.

He added, "They will continue to harass and try to coerce us into joining their program."

Recently the State Department of Natural Resources has warned those communities opposed to joining the three-county regional authority that strict fines may be imposed and federal funds cut off if quick action is not taken in resolving the wastewater issue.

The department has scheduled a meeting in Biloxi to discuss that possible enforcement action. All local government officials are invited to attend.

teacher supply money was less than last year, but stated they did not believe the teachers would need as many supplies this year.

A question of whether to approve an additional $750 allocation to the drafting department at Hancock North Central was protested by Banks, who stated, "Every other department has received cuts. It's only right that they be cut too."

Board member Louie Ladner argued the department received over $3,000 last year and that they were also being cut this year.

The board approved that increase. Possible savings from having to hire nine additional school personnel was also considered in view of the fact that money already budgeted for those salaries is based on an estimate that each teacher will have three years experience.

Board members noted every teacher receives an increase in salary for each additional year of experience.

Brenda Ladner stated one teacher recently hired had only one years experience and noted a savings which is not designated in the budget.

That savings and other similar savings not appearing on the budget proposal, prompted the board to approve purchasing blinds for Gulfview Elementary School and a copying machine estimated to cost $2,900.

Purchasing five additional school buses for the district was also discussed.

The board has advertised for the buses and recently received bids proposals in the range of $115,000.

The question arose whether the district could afford that cost. Research by Joseph Gex, board attorney, showed the board could borrow the money from a 16th Section Land principal fund now containing some $173,000 of uncommitted funds.

Some $62,000 has already been borrowed against to purchase school buses several years ago.

Brenda Ladner said money in that fund has been acquired through royalties received through 16th Section Land leases. She stated that money can only be borrowed against, and cannot be spent.

A breakdown of the budget for the 1981-82 fiscal year shows: $878,537 from local sources including ad valorem taxes, mineral taxes, and interest on investments; $2,062,461 from state sources including homestead exemption, severance tax, and vocational and adult education; and $241,203 from federal sources including Title I, TV, and pre-school.

VA Questions

Q. What is the maximum amount I can borrow on a Veterans Administration guaranteed home loan?

A. There is no legal maximum. The VA will guarantee 60 percent of the loan or $27,500, whichever is less. The total amount of the loan is determined by the policy of your lending institution and by your ability to repay the loan.

Q. Can a veteran get an extension of his 10-year delimiting date for education benefits from the Veterans Administration?

A. If a veteran was physically or mentally disabled during the period of his eligibility, he may apply for an extension by submitting medical evidence for consideration.

Q. When are dividends paid on participating National Service Life Insurance policies?

A. Dividends are normally paid on the anniversary date of the insurance policy.

Though I'm such a devotee of fresh raw tomatoes that I've been known to pluck and eat them right from the garden, I like also to cook them in many, many ways.

One of my favorites is this version of Pennsylvania-Dutch-Tomatoes, which I wheedled from a farm wife in the Dutch countryside of eastern Pennsylvania, after sampling generously her various specialties.

Her recipe, she told me, had been used for generations in her family, and I can understand why.

You may use either ripe or green tomatoes for this, though I prefer the green in this case.

Slice the tomatoes, dust generously with flour and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cook slowly in butter or margarine, sprinkle with brown sugar, and turn with a broad spatula. Cook this side, again sprinkling with sugar, and taking care not to let either butter or sugar burn. When the slices are barely brown, pour cream over them, covering the bottom of the skillet, and continue cooking until the cream is hot and well mixed with the butter and sugar. Place the tomatoes on a deep platter or in a shallow bowl, and pour the creamy sauce over, and serve.

If you don't care for the cream, you may serve the tomatoes "à la" but, the contrast in flavors is what makes this dish memorable. (You may use evaporated milk for economy or diet reasons, also.)

This dish goes well with cold sliced ham or chicken.

Another tasty version of the fried green tomato is popular in the Tidewater country of Virginia. For this, fry several slices of bacon, remove and set aside while you fry thick slices of green tomato in the hot bacon fat. Salt and pepper liberally, and serve on toast slices with the bacon atop.

In parts of France, the tomato slices are dipped in a thick egg-and-milk batter, fried in hot oil, and served with branches of fresh parsley, fried in the same oil. Delicious, all versions, to a tomato lover such as I.

VA Questions

Q. Is there an expiration date on my Veterans Administration home loan benefit?

A. No. Loan entitlement is no longer subject to an expiration date.

Q. As an eligible veteran, I am planning to be buried in a national cemetery. I also wish to have my family buried there. What must I do?

A. If you are eligible for burial, your spouse and minor children may also be buried in a national cemetery. If they predecease you, they may be buried if you intend to be interred in the same grave. You must sign an agreement to that effect.

Q. Do I have to make a down payment on a Veterans Administration guaranteed home loan?

A. Generally speaking, if the loan amount requested does not exceed the appraised value of the home and the veteran meets the loan qualifying conditions, the lender may not impose a down payment on a VA guaranteed loan.

Q. I am considering taking a loan on my National Service Life Insurance policy. Will I receive a smaller dividend if I obtain a loan?

A. No. The dividends earned will not be affected by the loan.

TEST SCORE GRUMBLES—Discussing a recent news article revealing Hancock County School District students as relatively low scorers in recent California Achievement Tests are, from left, Superintendent of Education Billy Sills; School Board President Monvel Cuevas; Secretary Sue Dean; and Board Members Johnny Banks, and Woodrow, Louie and George Ladner. Louie Ladner and Sills voiced complaints about the news article. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

results were not for comparison among school districts.

He also accused the newspaper article of not emphasizing the district's students scored as expected.

Sills said, "The students in Hancock County are doing what they were supposed to do."

"You don't compare students in different districts," he added.

Ladner said Hancock students, with a primarily rural background, would not score as highly as urban youngsters because of their exposure in city areas.

"We've got some improvements and we're in a competitive range," he added.

Sills said he would have appreciated if the reporter would have contacted him prior to the article's publication and noted, "Comparing Hancock's scores this year with previous results show we did not have any below average areas as we did before."

Ladner suggested students should be placed in a more favorable testing environment when the CAT is given in future years.

In other business at the 9 a.m. meeting in the D.M. Russell Sr. Memorial Youth Court Building in Bay St. Louis, the board:

—Approved a salary scale for the district's two licensed practical nurses—listed $558 per month for a nurse with no experience ranging to $592 for an LPN with 12 years experience;

—Approved monthly salary scales for cafeteria workers with five percent increment increases for each year of experience including $908-$963 for a supervisor, $627-$665 for managers, $515-$546 for assistant managers, and $447-$472 for workers. Ladner explained due to federal budget reductions the cafeteria personnel would receive about a $55 pay increase, but work time would be reduced 30 minutes daily;

—Approved a recommendation by Sills to employ Darlene Randall as a home economics teacher and Mary Niolet as a mathematics instructor for Hancock North Central High School for the 1981-1982 school year;

—Approved a proposed transportation plan for the 1981-1982 school year;

—Approved a geophysical permit for Professional Geophysics, Inc. of New Orleans which will pay the district $100 per hole for seismographic work in Section 16-6-15 near Pearlinton;

—Approved a teacher leave policy;

—Authorized the release of Tiana Flickinger of Diamondhead from the district to attend the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District;

—Authorized bid advertisements for school food service contract;

—Authorized bid advertisements for heavy site preparation (bedding) for tree planting in Section 16-6-14 near the Standard Community as requested by Rand Riedrich, county forester with the Mississippi Forestry Commission;

—Authorized bid advertisements for butane fuel conversion kits for the district's buses and trucks;

—Authorized bid advertisements for a motor driven compressor with a 275-pound air pressure capability;

—Authorized a $2,710 payment to Bloomsman Gas Co. of Waveland for five bus butane fuel conversion kits;

—Authorized a $926 payment to W.A. McDonald and Sons in Bay St. Louis for various repair materials for Gulfview Elementary School in Lakeshore;

—Authorized Sills to write a letter to the State Highway Department requesting a caution light at the Hwy. 603 and Cuevas-Town Road intersection near HNC;

—Authorized payment of expenses for the district's bookkeeper, assistant superintendent, and the student services director to attend a June 15-19 Southern School Boards Association Conference in Nashville, Tenn.;

—Authorized Sills to move underground fuel tanks from in front of HNC;

—Accepted a letter from Riedrich recommending work on schools lands this year including timber sales on Sections 16-7-14 and 16-8-16; control burning on Sections 16-6-15, 16-9-15, 16-6-14 and 16-8-16; boundary painting on Sections 16-5-14, 16-6-14, 16-7-14, 16-5-15 and 16-7-16; and bedding and planting on Section 16-6-14;

—Accepted annual bids for athletic supplies, batteries, duplicating supplies, gasoline and oil, janitorial supplies, machine maintenance, printing, maintenance supplies, pest control, propane and butane, school bus supplies, tires and tubes, and welding supplies;

—Took under advisement bids from Turan-Lane Chevrolet in Bay St. Louis and J.P. Sisson International Co. of Gulfport for new school buses;

—Tabled approval of the 1981-1982 $3.1 million district budget;

—Tabled a $636 payment request from HNC High School Principal Donald Hillman for janitorial supply purchases; —Received a letter from Moore and Powell Certified Public Accountants in Bay St. Louis requesting a revenue statement for 16th Section property including Buccaneer State Park. The section was recently transferred to the Bay school district resulting from incorporation by the City of Waveland;

—Heard a report from Sills that electronic pocket pagers for school district personnel would cost $6,000-$10,000;

—Heard a report from George Ladner requesting a fence be straitened behind Charles B. Murphy Elementary School in Pearlinton; —Heard a report from Louie Ladner recommending a single primary high voltage meter system replace some 15 separate meters at HNC. He said the single meter would reduce electrical costs;

—Heard a report from Louie Ladner that the HNC Elementary Parent-Teacher Association will begin installing air conditioning units in classrooms under his direction;

—Heard a recommendation by Louie Ladner to ask the County Board of Supervisors to levy millage for additional classrooms at district schools;

—Individually donated to a horse show which was Saturday in the Nathan Necaise Memorial Arena in the White Cypress Community benefitting the HNC High School basketball team.

ASCS Report

CROP CERTIFICATION

Farmers who have not reported their spring seeded crops to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service have until July 15 to do so. By certifying these acres, producers will be eligible for disaster protection, price support loans and deficiency payments.

Franklin A. Gennin, an official of the agency, says the 1981 program provides for disaster payments to help farmers whose crops are severely damaged by weather conditions. It covers both low yield and prevented planting provisions, and offers protection against drought, flood, hail and other conditions.

Farmers whose fall-seeded wheat or barley was damaged by winterkill, drought or other disasters may qualify for payments under disaster provisions of the wheat and feed grain program.

Franklin A. Gennin, county executive director of the Pearl River-Hancock County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office, advises farmers not to graze, hay or plow under their failed acreages because they could destroy evidence of the damaged crop before the acreage is released by ASCS.

"Farmers with failed acreages of all-seeded crops should notify our office as soon as possible," he said.

Under the program, farmers may receive payments if a disaster destroys their crops and they abandon acreage or devote it to another use.

They may also qualify for disaster payments if they carry damaged acres through to harvest but reap substantially less than a normal crop.

For more information on failed acreages, contact the local ASCS office.

STORAGE LOANS

Recent changes in the farm facility loan program, increased the minimum down payment, raised the interest rate, decreased the maximum down payment, raised the interest rate, decreased the maximum loan amount and lowered the repayment term on new loans.

The program provides loan to farmers to help them buy, build or remodel on-farm storage facilities and to obtain drying and handling equipment.

To help cut federal spending, ASCS lowered the maximum loan limit from $100,000 to $50,000. The cash down payment was increased from 15 to 25 percent and the interest rate was raised from 12½ to 14½ percent. The agency also shortened the previous 8-year repayment term to five years.

"These changes will not apply to facility loans already in effect," Gennin said. The 14½ percent interest rate is also applicable to 1981 crop loans.

He said storage needs will be based on one year's production instead of two years as before.

"All existing storage space will be considered in determining storage capacity," the ASCS official said.

In the past, space already in use to store grain under the farmer-owned grain reserve was not counted in figuring storage needs.

Changes in the farm facility loan program are expected to save the federal government about $29 million for the remainder of fiscal year 1981 and $145 million for fiscal 1982.

There are approximately 300 million cars in the world.

No vacancy at Hancock Hilton, sheriff reports

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Hancock County's jail housed 26 prisoners Wednesday night, almost double its 15 inmate capacity, according to Hancock Sheriff Ronald Peterson.

Peterson said Thursday, "We had people sleeping on the floor. We had to borrow cots from the Civil Defense for prisoners to sleep on."

"The regular cell for trustees had to be used and we moved them to a cell that was used as a storage room," Peterson added.

The sheriff said he is now housing 13 prisoners for the state and they are taking up the bulk of the facilities.

Peterson allowed, "We are trying very hard to meet federal regulations in keeping the state's convicted prisoners separate from inmates coming into the facility before being convicted."

The Hancock jail is currently undergoing a face lifting with painting of the cells and installation of new flooring.

A new kitchen has been constructed and the area where the old kitchen was is being converted into a dining facility.

Peterson has been using trustees to do the majority of the renovations.

MR. AND MRS. MICHAEL STEPHEN KEEL

Afternoon ceremony unites Keel, Tabor

Margaret Susie, Tabor of Pass Christian and Michael Stephen Keel of Delisle were married in an afternoon ceremony Saturday, June 6 in St. Paul's Catholic Church with Msgr. James P. McGeogh officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace B. Tabor of Pass Christian. The groom's parents are Col. Murray E. Keel (USAF-Ret.) and Mrs. Keel both of Delisle. Wedding selections were presented by organist Laura Ferguson of Monticello, Ark., cousin of the bride; and Regina Sohrinide of Lake Charles, La., soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white polytulle trimmed with re-embroidered Alencon lace and seed pearls fashioned with a fitted bodice and featuring a portrait neckline, cap sleeves and gauntlets of matching lace. Her tiered tulle length veil of illusion fell from a caplet of lace and pearls.

She carried a cascade of silk gardenias, stephanotis and rosebuds interspersed with ivy and baby's breath.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Bridget Dabkowski of Biloxi. Bridesmaids were Mary K. Ladner; Nadine J. Tabor, sister-in-law of the bride; and Patricia Dickinson, all of Bay St. Louis.

They were identically attired in Victorian style gowns of mauve silesta. A lace yoke trimmed with lace ruffle enhanced the bodice and tiny buttons extended down the back of the gown.

They carried mauve silk roses decorated with baby's breath and ribbon.

Jennifer Tabor of Bay St. Louis, niece of the bride, was flower girl. Ring bearers were cousins of the bride, Sean Ziegler of Bay St. Louis and Adam Ferguson of Monticello, Ark.

Murray Keel served his son as best man.

Groomsmen were Gary Keel of Delisle, brother of the groom; Brian Tabor, brother of the bride; and Thomas Adams III.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Veterans of Foreign Wars hall.

On return from a wedding trip to Florida, the couple will reside in Jackson, Miss. where the groom is a senior dental student at the University of Mississippi Medical Center.

Kentucky nuptials join Favre, Hartigan

Marcella Sue Hartigan became the bride of Curtis Blaize Favre Jr. in a 6 p.m. ceremony on June 27 at Eddy Creek Baptist Church in Princeton, Ky.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hartigan of Princeton, Ky. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Blaize Favre Sr. of Bay St. Louis.

Rev. Kenny Cummins of Murray, Ky. officiated at the double ring candlelight ceremony.

The church was decorated with a lighted fifteen branch candelabra, two smaller candelabrum and two baskets of pink, yellow and blue gladioli with complimentary pastel ribbons. Family pews were marked with white satin bows.

Nuptial music was provided by Nancy Brown of Princeton, Ky., vocalist, accompanied by Mrs. Pat Fralick, organist.

Selections included "Theme From Love Story"; "You Needed Me"; "What A Difference You Made In My Life"; "O Perfect Love"; "If"; "You Light Up My Life"; "The Rose"; "Speak Softly Love"; "The Wedding Song"; and traditional wedding marches.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of chantilly lace and polyester over peau de soie featuring a Queen Anne neckline and keyhole back. The full bishop sleeves ended in lace cuffs and rows of lace adorned the chapel length wattleau train. Her veil of illusion was edged in chantilly lace and fell from a caplet.

She carried a colonial style bouquet of pink, yellow and blue roses and rosebuds, stephanotis and baby's breath with matching ribbon streamers ending in love knots.

The bride presented her mother with a single stemmed white rose entering into the church, and bestowed the groom's mother with an identical rose upon leaving.

Mrs. Christy Hartigan of Princeton, Ky., sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. Mrs. Ginny Ray of Princeton was bridesmaid.

The attendants wore gowns of pastel blue and pink, respectively. Hair combs were adorned with matching flowers and they carried single stemmed roses with ribbon streamers.

Miss Angel Favre of Bay St. Louis, sister of the groom, was flower girl. She wore a long yellow dress overlaid with sheer yellow dotted swiss. A matching flower comb was worn in her hair and she carried a white wicker basket of yellow crysanthemum petals with a yellow bow.

Dale Hartigan of Princeton, Ky., brother of the bride, was best man. Groomsmen were Joey Harris of Amite, La., cousin of the bride.

Dana Hartigan of Princeton and Vernon Sumrall of Soso, Miss., cousins of the bride, were ushers.

Jess Favre of Bay St. Louis, brother of the groom, was ring bearer.

A reception followed the ceremony at the church fellowship hall.

The mother of the bride chose for the occasion a light blue street length polyester dress with a white orchid corsage. The groom's mother was attired in a lavender street length dress accented with a white vest and white orchid corsage.

The bride's table was covered with a pink cloth overlaid with lace and held a three tiered wedding cake centered with a flowing fountain.

The guest register table was covered with a yellow cloth overlaid with lace and was decorated with a basket of pink, yellow and blue flowers.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Leta Hartigan; Pearl Hartigan; Mrs. Ambie Rogers, all aunts of the bride; Mrs. Becky Hartigan and Mrs. Martha Ann Drennan, all cousins of the bride; and Mrs. Margaret Wilson, all of Princeton.

The guest register was kept by Mrs. Elizabeth Cayce of Princeton.

For traveling to central and eastern Kentucky, the bride chose a two piece dress of mulberry polyester with a white rose corsage interspersed with multi-color ribbon.

The couple will reside in Waveland.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Curtis B. Favre Sr., Jess, Angel and Corey of Bay St. Louis; Mrs. Annis Rogers of Wiggins; Mr. and Mrs. W.G. Sumrall and Vernon of Soso; Mr. and Tennyson Husser of Franklinton, La.; and Joey Harris of Amite, La.

Also Mrs. Jean Fourqurean, Mrs. Carolyn Glass, Mrs. Sandra Ziemann, Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Young, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Gray, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Drennan, all of Hopkinsville, Ky. and Judy Gray of Cadiz, Ky.

Prior to their marriage the couple was honored at several events, including a May 29 miscellaneous shower hosted by the Baptist Women of Eddy Creek Baptist Church.

Employees of Bass & Company were hosts for a June 17 luncheon at Owen's Delicatessen.

The bridesmaids luncheon was given by Mrs. Elizabeth Cayce and Mrs. Pat Fralick on June 20 in the Cayce home.

Mrs. Martha Ann Drennan and Mrs. Becky Hartigan hosted a family potluck supper June 22 in the Drennan home.

Ramshur, Shoemaker wed

Betty Shoemaker of Bay St. Louis and Rev. Jesse D. Ramshur of Louisville, Ky. were united in marriage in an evening ceremony on June 12 at the Church of Our Lord Jesus in Waveland.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Huey Foster of Richton, Mississippi. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Ramshur of Eudora, Ark.

Rev. Timothy C. Rush officiated at the candlelight ceremony before a bridal arch decorated with blue and white carnations and flanked by lighted candelabra.

Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Bert Estapa of Bay St. Louis.

Given in marriage by her son, Randall Shoemaker, the bride wore a formal gown of light blue chiffon over taffeta fashioned with empire waistline and crystal pleated skirt.

She carried a white bride's bible adorned with a white orchid and baby's breath.

Rhonda Rush of Waveland, daughter of the bride, was matron of honor.

She wore a designer gown of light blue chiffon over taffeta and carried a nosegay of blue and white carnations.

Querubin Alcaen of Bay St. Louis, son-in-law of the bride, was best man.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Church of Our Lord Jesus fellowship hall. Assisting in serving were Barbara Planer and Mrs. Kathryn Rush.

For traveling to Laurel, the bride chose a brown and beige suit with matching accessories.

The couple will reside in Bay St. Louis.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Earl Ryce, Mr. and Mrs. William Hawkins, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Shuman, all of Sibley; and Mrs. Margaret Spiera of Thomas, La.

The bride-elect, whose mother is the former Gloria Biehl, is the granddaughter of Mrs. A. D. Biehl Sr. of Bay St. Louis.

The couple will exchange vows September 5, 1981.

WANDA CHERYL SHIYOU

All-American Rose title goes to four varieties

To guide rose gardeners who want good roses, but are confused by the many varieties on the market, All-American Rose Selections has announced four new varieties worthy of the All-American award.

"Brandy, French Lace, Mon Cheri and Shreveport are the four 1982 award winners," says Jim Perry, horticulturist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. "These varieties have been tested intensively for two years by All-American Rose Selections in 25 official test gardens."

"These varieties may be purchased with the certainty that they are roses of high quality, excellent performance and great beauty," Perry adds.

Brandy has a rich, golden brandy color that ages to a creamy apricot. Besides this unusual coloring, the rose also has a mild tea fragrance.

Brandy is a strong, vigorous, bushy grower, medium to moderately tall. The foliage is large, semi-glossy and plentiful, with better than average disease resistance.

French Lace is generally ivory white with large "cutting quality" blooms. This plant usually attains medium height and becomes a wide as it is tall. The foliage is dark green and holly-like. The disease resistance is good.

Mon Cheri starts off as a soft pink bud with the color gradually changing to a deep, velvety red. The rose develops to a medium height with a bushy, upright-spreading, well-branched and balanced plant. The deep green, semi-glossy foliage will cover the strong, medium length stems which usually bear one bloom, making it excellent for cutting.

Shreveport makes a bushy plant constantly loaded with blossoms. Its foliage is large, glossy and deep green, and has good resistance to the rose diseases.

With its relatively tall, but compact, growth habit, Shreveport should fit well into the back rows of a border or foundation planting, as a center planting of a large rose bed, and should make a good flowering hedge.

VIVID NATURE

The National Geographic Special, "Etosha: Place of Dry Water," will be rebroadcast at 8 p.m., Monday, July 13, on the Mississippi ETV Network. It was first seen on ETV in January. Nature rules Etosha, a southwestern African land, with an iron hand—giving life with a deluge of rain, then gradually baking the ground until only the strongest survive the torrid dry season.

More Options In Fashions Than Ever Today

Dresses were never more exciting than they are this season—no matter which way your fancy turns.

Most important for a contemporary miss are the wondrously different looks she can latch on to, offered by leading dress manufacturers. Today, you want more fashion options, advice experts say. You want your choice of the best possible words in fashion—

It's interpreted here in "Victoria," an irresistible feminine new dress line featuring soft, silky georgettes lavished with ruffles, lace, and drapery. It all adds up to "Victoria's" look of innocence merged with sweet sophistication. Yet, only the look is expensive.

And the heat goes on—options in styling and beguiling all over the gamut. Famous line labels like "Vicky Vaughn" and "Toni Todd" photographed here, underscore a female heavy and give room-alignment to her pocketbook, too. In a cypress gadabout mood? Feeling folkloric? Ready for "Vicky Vaughn's" flirty French schoolgirl look? Harkening for the classier, too-like "Toni Todd's" super sweatdressing and jacket-dresses that go jauntily from desk to dawn? They're right at hand here, the fashion pros remind you, as is a wide range of the new season's rich colors, fabric excitement and variety of soft shapes.

So name your fantasy, then trip on over to your favorite "more-options" fashion shop and see it come true.

Senior Aides market treasures

Hancock County Senior Aids, under the direction of Frances Adkins, director of the Senior Aids Program in 15 southern counties in Mississippi, recently scheduled a Flea Market in the fairground building in Bay St. Louis.

Proceeds from the sale will be used to purchase security shutters for a proposed non-profit handicraft outlet to be located in the old brick toll house building on the east side of the Bay St. Louis Bridge. Adkins said anyone above 55-years-old can submit handcrafted goods to the outlet when the outlet is completed.

She said three small rooms in the toll-house building are being converted to house the operation. The building, owned by the Mississippi Highway Department and currently being used to house radio communication equipment, has been donated by the department to the senior aids.

Adkins said the toll house will be the newest market for senior citizens' handcrafted items.

She added the business is non-profit and senior citizens will price their own items.

"The highway department made an agreement with us for this purpose. They wanted to donate the building for something responsive to the community which will enhance the area."

Three other outlets have been established along the Mississippi Coast, Adkins said. The closest outlet to toll-house building is located at the former Waveland Hospitality Center on US-90, now called "The Forget Me Not Shop."

Adkins praised that shop and stated, "There are a number of cute items there for sale."

A staff of senior aids has already been chosen to run the business. The aids will work part time—20 hours a week—and will be paid by the Department of Labor through the National Council of Senior Citizens.

Anyone interested in more information is requested to contact the senior aid's office at 868-2311 in Gulfport.

Adkins expects the shop to open in approximately one month.

FLEA MARKET—A number of people turned out to examine the items on sale at a recent flea market in Hancock County. The sale, sponsored by the Senior Aid Program, included many handcrafted items made by citizens over 55 years-old.

The former tollhouse on the east side of the Bay St. Louis bridge will be used in the future to sell the handcrafted items. Proceeds from this flea market and ones in the near future will be used to purchase security shutters for that building.

Stieffel songs highlight Bay Theatre event

By EDGAR PEREZ
Kathleen (Topsy) Stieffel is the brightest star in a firmament of young talent which sparkled Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings in the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre Production of the 1956 Broadway hit 'Bells Are Ringing.'

Miss Stieffel's vocal talents are admirably showcased in this mid-summer vehicle of the company which also features Ken Rayborn in the lead male role of playwright Jeff Moss who believes the insights of Ella Peterson, played by Miss Stieffel, are due to psychic abilities. But in fact, Ella gets her inside information from her position as an operator with a Manhattan answering service which is doubling as a bookie operation.

Bobby Poole III flashes as the sidekick to Inspector Barnes, played by Richard Taylor, as they conduct a slapstick gumshoe attempt to ferret out gamblers and prostitutes from the Susan-swer phone office.

Stieffel and Rayborn are both exciting in their vocal rendition of 'Better Than A Dream.'

The show brings a local revival of the big mid-fifties hit from the Broadway production, 'The Party's Over.'

Lossie Edan leads a company of young hoofers who kick up the dust in the old Boardman Avenue Playhouse and otherwise entertain through the presentation. One young trouper kept her composure like a professional but brought the house down when in a swirling spin she unwound her wrap-around skirt and lost it in the heat of the action.

Some 15 other performers loaned their energies to create a delightful evening for an enthusiastic audience opening night.

Pack a lunch and enjoy a night out on Boardman Avenue in Bay St. Louis when the presentation continues Thursday through Saturday of this week.

Mental Health Center budget to be outlined

Charles Tynes of Poplarville, business manager for the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center in Gulfport, will be featured speaker at a July 16 meeting of the Hancock County Advisory Committee for Mental Health-Mental Retardation.

Tynes said he will discuss the center's budget for fiscal 1982 which began July 1.

The meeting is slated to begin at 4 p.m. in the Hancock Industries Building on US-90 at Drinkwater Street in Bay St. Louis.

Committee members include Wayne Ducomb Jr., president; Anita Lamb, Hancock County commissioner for mental health-mental retardation; Mae Beyer, executive director, Hancock County United Way; Dr. Brenda Scaffidi, director of special education, Bay St. Louis schools; Bay St. Louis Police Chief Douglas Williams; District Five Supervisor James Travira; Sister Joseph of Annunciation School, Kiln; Pam Jones, nutrition director for Hancock Senior Citizens Programs; Susan Smith, Hancock County Welfare Department; and Edgar Perez, managing editor, The Sea Coast Echo.

Dr. Catherine Lundy of Waveland is coordinator of the center's Hancock County services, and George Graves is director of Hancock Industries.

DRUG QUIZ

by Curt Scarborough, Ph.D.
Used by permission; all rights reserved by DATE, St. Louis, Mo.
QUESTION - Approximately 2.3 million Americans died during this past year, and 25% of those deaths are related to drug use including more than 300,000 deaths related to smoking and more than 200,000 deaths related to alcohol. Not including these two drugs, which causes the most deaths in our nation?

- Prescription drugs
- Heroin
- Cocaine
- LSD

ANSWER - Each year, 7 million Americans use barbiturates, tranquilizers, amphetamines, narcotics, and other prescription drugs for non-medical purposes, often with disastrous results. These drugs often are over-prescribed and over-utilized, particularly by vulnerable segments of the population such as the elderly. They're perfectly legal drugs, usually given by well-meaning family doctors. Yet prescription drugs are the cause of eight out of ten drug-related deaths in the United States.

Seafood Festival proceeds to benefit St. Paul's School

Many activities have been planned for the 9th Annual Seafood Festival to be held in War Memorial Park in Pass Christian Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, July 24-26.

"There will be fun and games for both young and old and in the evenings special attractions," according to E. Davis McCutcheon, a festival coordinator.

"On Friday, July 24th at 8 p.m. there will be a special performance by the Shades Band.

On the evening of Saturday, July 25, there will be a Bon Ton Roulette and on Sunday, July 26, a Fals Do Do.

A special proclamation will be issued by Mayor Gordon Bishop of Pass Christian, declaring the weekend as

"Seafood Festival Days."

A. J. Giordina and his twin brother Joe Giordina, who are anchor men on WLOX-TV, Channel 13, will be guests of honor on Sunday, July 26.

The festival is sponsored by St. Paul's Catholic Church in Pass Christian.

Proceeds will benefit St. Paul's Elementary School.

Knights' Notes

Pere Le Duc Council invites everyone to the closing day festivities of the Our Lady of the Gulf Parish Fair this evening.

The fair begins at 6 p.m., so bring the family for an evening of fun and games. All proceeds go to the parish.

The Ladies' Auxiliary will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. Leslie Blaize is seeking Knights who are interested in forming a Council bowling team.

Blaize states the Knights of Columbus has a bowling league and he feels that our council would enjoy participating in the tournaments.

Council bowlers are asked to contact Blaize at 467-1718.

In what may be a first in the area, the Knights of Columbus and the Knights of Peter Claver will join July 19, to clean up St. Mary's Cemetery.

Those from Our Lady of the Gulf and St. Rose De Lima Parishes are reminded that this is their cemetery and are asked to join the Knights in cleaning up the grounds.

We have been asked to remind parishioners that the plots of the cemetery are private and the Knights are unable to clean these plots without trespassing.

Therefore, we hope to see many of the parishioners that morning cleaning up their family plots.

This would contribute greatly to the appearance of the cemetery.

As we have noted before, this is our cemetery and it is our responsibility to see that the upkeep is proper and constantly maintained.

It would be a shame for us to allow the place where we come to remember and honor our departed loved ones to become neglected and unkempt.

Could you not spare a couple hours of your time on Sunday, July 19, in remembrance of them by participating in this clean-up project?

The Knights will provide cold refreshments and will be there from 6 a.m. until noon.

Have you made your reservations for the installation of officers July 24? We need to know how many guests you will be bringing to hear Bishop Howze so we can prepare the banquet.

Please call Grand Knight Bob Hubbard at 467-3463. Hubbard tells us that the Ladies Auxiliary is planning a wonderful meal.

A message to all inactive Knights: The Council needs you. Why not reactivate your membership now by calling 467-6256? Become a part of the newly vitalized Pere Le Duc Council. We promise you that you will be pleased at the progress we are making.

"Do you know of anyone who wishes to be a Knight? It's still not too late to propose a new member," said Hubbard who was recently recognized as top proposer for the Knights of Columbus. Call the Knights now.

Church of Christ show ten years old

Television's Amazing Grace Bible Class will be ten years old this month.

Brother Ira North, minister for the Madison Church of Christ in Madison, Tenn. has been its speaker from the start.

The program is seen in over 300 cities and towns in America and more than 14,000 have participated in the Bible Correspondence School, and thousands of tracts and booklets have been given away, North said.

As the program continues to expand, many additional features are being considered.

One important feature of the program, giving away the Family Bible each week, will be continued, North added.

In this area, the program can be seen on Channel 4, at 9 a.m. on Sunday mornings.

The program is sponsored by area Churches of Christ.

There's an Answer!

Let the anger out?

Q. Unlike the person who wrote in and said she was reared to believe Christians do not have anger, I was reared to believe it was OK to express angry feelings. While going to a psychiatrist he reaffirmed this and said, "Do what you want to do to make yourself feel good." I do not believe I should think only of myself, yet I have all these angry feelings I do not know what to do with. If I hold them I get depressed. If I have a good fit I feel awful afterward for doing this. Please help me.

A. It is true that repressed anger can be harmful. But it is equally true that uncontrolled anger hurts you and those who have to put up with it. The mature person learns to acknowledge the anger and express it in appropriate ways. Instead of having "a good fit" try some good physical exercise. Then when you are calm sit down and discuss the problem quietly and reasonably—unless by that time it is no longer important.

We are sending you our booklet The Rewards of Positive Living which is free to any reader of this column. Write to us at Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

Not like the movies Q. I've known my boyfriend for 3 years, but we only see each other once a year during our holidays. He keeps putting it off because suspicious he has tuberculosis or some other serious health problems. At first it was a very bad cough, then a stomach ulcer. I want him to have a medical examination certificate before we talk about marriage, but I know he won't agree to do this. I love him, but my love is not the kind shown in movies where one marries another even if he only lives for a limited number of years. How can I know if he is OK health-wise?

A. Just come right out and let it be known that you want full information on the state of his health. That is your right if you are going to marry him. You are wise in getting this matter cleared up now.

WERE YOU IN CHURCH SERVICES last week? Did you join that careless and indifferent host across the land who could and should have been in the house of God last Lord's Day but were not? Who knows what a great and lasting blessing you may have missed!

Did you ever stop to think seriously about what your absence did? Actually, you, in effect voted to close the church; not intentionally, nor maliciously, but carelessly, lazily, thoughtlessly, indifferently, you voted.

You voted to close its doors that its witness and testimony might be stopped. You voted to close the open Bible on the pulpit—the Bible given us by years of struggle and by the blood of martyrs who died that we might have it to read.

You voted that the children of the Sunday school no longer be taught the sublime truths of the Scriptures and no longer lift their voices in singing. "Jesus loves me, this I know, for the Bible tells me so."

You also voted for the voice of the choir and the congregation to be stilled and that they no longer sing in united praise, "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name."

Your absence was much more serious than you intended! For you voted, by your actions, for every missionary to be called home, all native workers supported by the churches to stop preaching, every hospital, every orphanage, every school and every missionary project to be abandoned, every influence for right and for good and for truth in our community to be curtailed and finally stopped.

You voted for the darkness of pagan superstition, the degrading influences of sin, the blight of ignorance, and the curse of selfish greed once more to settle their damning weight on the shoulders of an already over-burdened world.

By your action (your absence) you voted all this, I say, and more too—things the human heart cannot grasp nor find words to adequately express. Carelessly, lazily, indifferently, you voted. For, you see, you could have gone, and should have gone, but you did not. You stayed away from church services last week.

"Let us hold fast the profession of our faith without wavering; (for he is faithful that promised;) and let us consider one another to provoke unto love and to good works: not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is; but exhorting one another: and so much the more, as ye see the day approaching" - Heb. 10:23-25.

"Therefore to him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin" - James

Moderate consumption urged for decaffeinated coffees

Many coffee drinkers are switching to decaffeinated brands because of evidence linking excessive caffeine intake to headaches, irritability and birth defects.

"This rise in decaffeinated coffee drinkers has led to an increase in questions about this product," says Ann O. Rushing, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service marketing specialist.

Regular and instant decaffeinated coffee are made through a similar process. Green coffee beans are softened by steaming. The caffeine is then extracted by using a chlorine-containing solvent.

Finally the beans are steamed again to remove the residual solvent and then dried. The caffeine is removed, yet the flavor of the coffee beans is maintained.

Some safety concerns have been raised about the solvents used in decaffeination. Trichloroethylene once was used widely, but in 1975 the National Cancer Institute reported that it caused liver cancer in mice.

Manufacturers voluntarily stopped using trichloroethylene, she says. "Methylene chloride is the current solvent used."

Methylene chloride is under suspicion as a possible carcinogen.

A three-year study of this solvent is being conducted by the National Cancer Institute. In the meantime, the Food and Drug Administration has set a limit of 10 parts per million of residual methylene chloride which can be present in decaffeinated coffee.

"This amount is extremely small, and most of the methylene chloride in ground decaffeinated coffee evaporates in preparation," she adds.

But decaffeinated coffee may pose additional hazards. The decaffeination process may increase the risk of aflatoxin mold contamination. Aflatoxin is a potent carcinogen.

Decaffeinated coffee, like regular coffee, stimulates the release of stomach acid. Persons with stomach problems or ulcers should avoid excessive intake of this beverage.

"For persons who want the taste of coffee without the caffeine, decaffeinated brands provide an alternative," Mrs. Rushing says. "Until more is known about the safety of the decaffeination process, heavy consumption might best be avoided."

NEW ORLEANS—The delicate beauty of the South's wildflowers have been captured in beautifully detailed watercolors by Lucile Parker and reproduced in a magnificent new full-color volume, MISSISSIPPI WILDFLOWERS, published by Pelican Publishing Company, Gretna, Louisiana ($29.95 hardcover).

Growing in profusion on roadsides, among rolling hills, and along meandering streams, these richly colored and varied native flowers give pleasure to all who pass by. Now their beauty, color, and delicacy can be carefully studied in this fine book.

A combination art book and easy-to-use botanical guide, this volume was assembled primarily for the flower-lover rather than for the professional botanist. Indexes by common and scientific names and by family are provided, along with descriptions of the plants, their habitats and growing conditions, and the months during which they bloom.

While all the flowers depicted in this volume are native to Mississippi, because of the migratory nature of flora, most of them can be found in all of the other Southern coastal states, particularly Louisiana, Alabama, and Georgia.

Acclaimed botanical artist Lucile Parker has been drawing and painting flowers since childhood. She received art degrees from the University of Southern Mississippi and from the University of Alabama, and has been awarded an honorary doctorate of fine arts by William Carey College in Hattiesburg where she is chairman of the Department of Art.

THIS SUMMER... Get Energy Waste out of your home

During this period of double-digit inflation, the cost of your electric service has also increased. Electricity is no longer cheap, but when you consider the work that it does around the home, you still get real value for your electric service dollar... if electricity is used wisely and efficiently.

Mississippi Power wants to help you receive the greatest possible value from your energy dollar. Here are a few of the ways you can keep Energy Waste out of your home and help hold down the cost of your electric service:

INSULATION

Energy Waste hates insulation because it is one of the best ways to reduce the amount of energy used in heating and cooling.

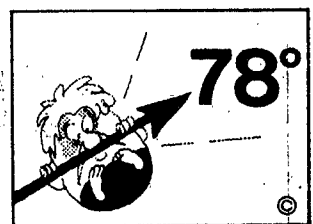

WEATHER STRIPPING

This energy-saving method is easy and inexpensive. You can apply weather stripping around your windows and doors yourself.

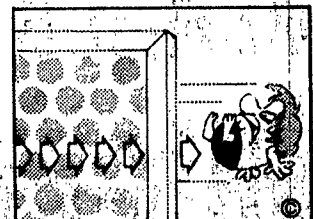

WATER HEATING

Energy Waste loves long, hot showers that waste lots of hot water. Install a flow restrictor at the shower head to reduce the amount of water used. Set the thermostat on your water heater at 130°F (140°F if you have a dishwasher) and cut energy consumption even more.

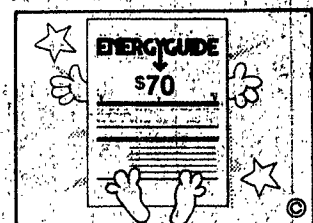

THERMOSTAT CONTROL

A few degrees can make a big difference. For example, Energy Waste consumes up to 83% more electricity when you cool at 72° rather than the design setting of 78°.

AIR CONDITIONING FILTERS

Dirty filters can dramatically increase your energy consumption. Inspect your filters today and clean or replace if necessary.

ENERGY EFFICIENT APPLIANCES

When shopping for appliances follow the Energy Guide Labels and select those models with a high energy efficiency ratio. You'll save energy dollars over the life of the appliance.

ENERGY MANAGEMENT HANDBOOK

Mississippi Power Company's "Energy Management Handbook" contains many more helpful suggestions to help keep Energy Waste out of your home. Pick up your free copy at any local office or we'll be glad to mail you a copy.

County Agent's Notes

SUMMER PASTURE

Where a high energy forage for grazing or a high tonnage hay crop is needed, you may consider planting a millet or sorghum-sudan hybrid according to John W. Smith, county agent.

Temporary summer crops are expensive to produce so they should usually be planted to fill a specific forage need. These crops are considered a must for grazing or green chop by many dairymen. They can be used for yearling cattle, being carried into or over the summer.

Where permanent pastures are short, control grazing beef brood cows giving calves full-time access is successfully used by some producers. Select fields convenient to cattle so grazing can be controlled.

Usually three plantings will be needed to provide grazing across the summer. Make first planting as soon as possible, the second in late May and the third in late June.

Plantings made after mid-summer often produce poorly and insects are always a problem. For a dairy cow, plant at least one acre in three plantings. A beef cow may get by with one-half acre in three plantings where limited grazing is practical and some permanent pasture is available.

The sorghum-sudan hybrids will produce the highest tonnage per acre but require good grazing management to utilize the forage when it is of highest quality. The sorghum-sudan hybrids are very sensitive to acid soils but produce better on heavier textured soils.

The hybrid millets usually produce less tonnage per acre (about the same on very sandy soils) as the sorghum-sudans, but the forage is leafier and of higher quality. Millet is suggested for grazing young animals and producing dairy cows.

Browntop millet can be used for grazing or hay. It produces a palatable, high quality forage but much less tonnage per acre. Also, browntop produces an abundance of seed and can become a pest in crop rotation programs.

FERTILIZER AND SEEDING

These crops will produce poorly when the soil pH is below 5.8, so lime application is necessary if soil is acid.

In absence of a soil test, apply approximately 50 lbs. of nitrogen, phosphorus and potash per acre (400 lbs. 13-13-13) at planting and topdress with 50-70 lbs. actual nitrogen after crop is grazed down, depending on the grazing desired.

Where hay or green chop is harvested from millet or sorghum-sudan hybrids, the rate of potash fertilizer should be doubled. Each ton of dry matter harvested will remove nearly 30 lbs. of actual potash.

Plant 25 lbs. of seed broadcast for grazing or 35 lbs. for hay per acre. Seeded in 14-inch rows, fifteen lbs. of seed per acre is satisfactory for grazing.

To seed 14-inch rows, close alternate holes in a standard grain-drill.

GRAZING MANAGEMENT

Delay grazing the sorghum-sudan hybrids until plants are at least 20 inches tall. It is desirable to let millet get about 18 inches tall before grazing, but it can be grazed anytime it is needed. Graze first planting until second is ready.

First planting can be clipped to an 8-inch stubble, then top dressed with nitrogen. Closely grazing or clipping can severely reduce the amount of regrowth. Never allow these crops to produce seedheads as forage quality is greatly reduced with maturity.

Dairy cattle are usually grazed 2 hours morning and afternoon. Where cows are allowed overnight access, planted acreage must be increased.

Stems or replacement heifers that are being grown out are often grazed daily until they get a full or no more than one-half day and then moved to permanent pasture.

It takes one-third to one-half additional acre of temporary pasture for full-time grazing so limited grazing for brood cows is suggested. Calves should have full-time access through creep gates.

Rotational grazing will increase forage consumed as it does on all pastures. When harvesting for hay, cut these crops in the early boot stage of growth.

To help assure the profitable production of temporary pastures apply good seedbed, seeding, fertilization and grazing management practices.

SOYBEANS AFTER WHEAT

Looks like our early maturing wheat crop gives us a chance to plant soybeans behind wheat earlier than usual this year. We've received plenty of moisture in the past few days, and that should help our double-cropping chances even more.

These two factors — late planting and not enough soil moisture — are the main reasons soybeans following wheat don't yield as much as normal-planted beans. Weeds and poor stands don't help either.

Planting beans behind wheat requires special consideration. One is managing the wheat straw. Burning the straw gives the big advantage of higher yields, but planting in the wheat stubble helps conserve moisture and slows weed germination.

If no-till options are not available, you may have to rely on conventional seedbed preparation by disking and harrowing. This tends to dry the soil and delay planting, but it gives you a chance to incorporate herbicides for weed control. In fact, where johnsongrass is a problem, this is the preferred method.

There is no single best approach to double-cropping. Your approach depends on your particular situation. Generally, it's suggested to plant in narrow rows and use mid to late maturing varieties if you plant after June 15.

Earlier planting or irrigation reduces the importance of row spacing.

TURF WEED CONTROL

Chemicals take a lot of the drudgery out of weed control in the home lawn. For most emerged weeds in bermudagrass and zoysiagrass lawns, the herbicide MSMA is a good choice.

Rates for using MSMA vary, but you'll know you have the mixture about right when the turf just starts to yellow or a slight tip burn occurs on the grass.

For those tough problem weeds like dallisgrass, bahiagrass, and goosegrass, you'll need to repeat the treatment every 10 to 20 days.

It's safe to apply MSMA on newly established bermudagrass lawns after two or three months or when the new root systems are active and extensive.

MANAGE PASTURES

Pastures must be managed with the same intensity as other field crops if they are to produce a profit. Take fertilization, for example. The surest way to get the most profit from money spent on fertilizer is to soil test and then fertilize according to the specific needs of the forage.

With today's high cost of fertilizer, I don't think we can afford to fertilize pastures if weeds aren't controlled. Most pasture weeds use twice the nitrogen and phosphorus and three times the potassium as desirable forages. Many of our common weeds also have the potential to produce nitrate poisoning and other problems like off-flavors in meat and milk.

A soil test is the place to start in managing pastures, or any other crop, for that matter. Contact the county Extension office for details and free materials.

LIME WIDELY

If your lime recommendations call for three to four tons per acre, it's a good idea to apply no more than two tons in any one application. This spreads the cost and prevents possible overliming of the surface soil if lime isn't incorporated properly. Too much spreader equipment is limited to two tons.

GET AND KEEP STANDS

The best way to make sure you get and keep stands is to provide good drainage, plant on a raised bed and use fungicides to protect seeds.

Make early plantings on soils with good internal and surface drainage. Good surface drainage is even more important on soils that have poor internal drainage.

To obtain good surface drainage, leave the rows three to four inches above the middles at planting. This allows drainage without leaving the seedbed too high for precision cultivation and chemical application.

Planting on the bed and using a fungicide will help get good stands of early planted crops. Planting on a raised seedbed is more critical where fungicides are not used because good air and water drainage reduces seed rot and seedling diseases.

TO TREAT OR NOT

In years like this one when soybean seed quality is lower, especially in the early maturing varieties, the added expense of a fungicide seed treatment can pay off. And, if you are faced with cool, wet soils at planting time, there's little doubt it will pay off.

The cost of treating soybean seed is small compared to the cost of replanting. Prices for treating vary from about $.50 per bushel for a dry hopper box material without molybdenum to about $.90 per bushel for liquids containing molybdenum.

I suggest using a fungicide if you encounter any of these conditions: Seed germination is less than 80 percent; you observed stand problems from seedling disease in a particular field in the past; you expect wet soils for long periods when planting early (before May 15) or anytime it is cool; or you use reduced seeding rates.

A fungicide seed treatment won't make good seed out of bad seed. Seed that aren't going to germinate won't do so even if treated. But a fungicide does provide a zone of protection around the seed and helps prevent seed decay for a short time in unfavorable conditions. It gives the seedling a much better chance to emerge when favorable conditions return.

If you use the treatment in a grain drill, be sure to mix the fungicide and seed thoroughly. And if you apply an inoculant, package it separately and apply it last and just before planting.

Fungicides can kill the nitrogen-fixing bacterial in inoculants.

BREAK-EVEN
Farmers are going to need higher prices for crops than they needed last year to break even. Farmers will pay 13 to 14 percent more in production costs this year, so higher crop prices will be needed to come out even.

In the Delta, soybean farmers need to receive $6.40 cents a bushel with yields of 25 bushels per acre to break even. This includes management costs. Non-Delta farmers need about $7 a bushel to break even; excluding management costs, on a 25 bushel per acre yield.

VIET VETS

More than 7 million of the 9 million living Vietnam Era veterans have used Veterans Administration benefits. Among them are over 6 million who have used VA educational assistance, and almost 2 million have received hospital care.
